AGRICULTURAL FAIR AT DANVILLE,-This interesting exhibition commences the present year on Tuesday, August 11th. We have before us the list of premiums. It is vesy rich and tempting, and we have no doubt but that the awards will all le made with perfect justice.

the Fair grounds contain twenty acres, are well ided with forest trees, and are beautifully located, asout one mile west of Danville. There has been erected, since the last year's exhibition, a large : nd splendid Amphitheatre, capable of seating con fortably from eight to ten thousand visitors, with a go d Donahue, (ou costs), Martha Hogg, Roger Long. promenade attached. There is also npon the grounds a neat and pleasant cottage, two stories high, exclusice'y for the use of the ladies; and booths, where refreshments of the season will be found. Everything necessary for the comfort and convenience of the company and exhibitors will be carefully provided and all necessary wants supplied.

SABBATH SCHOOL CELEBRATION.—The Sabbath School connected with the Walnut Street Methodist Episcopal Chnrch gave an exhibitiou in commemoration of the Fourth of July, on last Monday evening. The house was filled to overflowing notwithstanding the unfavorable appearaece of the weather, and a great many persons were deprived of the privilege of witnessing the exercises, being unable to get into the Church. We are glad to learn, how- girl only two years old, in a most inhuman manner ever, that the officers and teachers of the school Her cries having attracted the attention of passershave kindly consented, at the earnest solicitation of by, on the 27th ult., admittance was gained, when a large number of persons, to have the delightful and instructive exercises repeated, on Friday even- by the feet to the top, almost starved, having been ing, July 10, at the Walnut Street M. E. Church, corner Fifth and Walnut sts., commencing at 8 o'clock precisely. The public are invited to attend: and it is to be hoped that there will be as many persons to witness the second exhibition as were present at the first. The exhibition is free, but volcontributions will be gladly received.

A LEAF OF THE OLDEN TIME. The careless. wayward wind last evening tossed at our feet a dingy serap of paper, which had the appearance of containing ancient hieroglyphics. Upon examination we found it to be a leaf of the day book of some enterprising storekeeper at Pleasant Grove Mills, Kv. It was dated September 10, 1821-nearly thirty-six years ago. The chief article charged was whisky, of which there was an alarming consumption at 621/2 cents per gallon-genuine old Bourbon, that elongated life, without the strychnine that cuts it short. Here and there was an entry of a wool hat at $1 50, and the most refreshing of all, flour at $2 97 per barrel. Those were the good old times.

Among the credits were several for day's work at fifty cents per day.

We have received a long letter, from a respectable source, purporting to give a true account of the unhappy affair in which young Mr. Price was killed and his father wounded by Mr. James P. Gay in Clarke county. The writer protests strongly that the statement given in our paper is cruelly unjust to

If our correspondent's statement of the circumstances is true, Mr. Gay certainly does not deserve what has been said of him. We regret that anything has appeared in our columns tending to create any kind of public opinion whatever upon the subject, and we hope our readers will free their minds as far as possible from all the bias that may have been caused by the Jonrnal's brief paragraph.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

PORTLAND TELEGRAPH LINE. Office at Portland, Delime's Drug Store, on the wharf.
Office at Shippingport, in the Canal Office.
Office at Louisville, Durrett's Clothing Store, corner Fourth and Water streets.

We have been reporting the stage of water in the canal a foot above what the mark indicates since it was deepened last fall. A large quantity of mud has accumulated in it since, and boats drawing six inches more than the mark shows find great difficulty in getting through it. The Superintendent keeps the mud boat constantly employed to remove the obstruction. We shall hereafter report only 6 inches water over the mark. Last evening there were accordingly 5 feet 4 inches water in the canal.

The Rainbow .- This steamer is advertised to leave for New Orleans to-morrow evening. In speed she has few equals and no superiors, while her accommodations are capital. She arrived yesterday, bringing us New Orleans papers of last Thursday evening and copies of the manifest and memorandum. Her time to Cairo was only 4 days 1 hour, having made twenty-four landings on the Mississippi and lost two hours by fog.

The W. A. Eaves is the regular packet for Evans-

The great steamer Jacob Strader is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day.

The splendid packet Northerner is due from Memphis this morning and will return to that port toorrow evening.

Diana .- Capt. E. T. Sturgeon has determined to name his new boat, which is now building by the Howards, Diana. Certainly a more beautiful and appropriate name could not have been selected. Diana was the name of Capt. Frank Carter's boat, which made the first trip from New Orleans to this port inside of six days. This was some ten years ago, and the Diana was then regarded as the fastest boat afloat. Six days from New Orleans is now con sidered a common run. We have no doubt, however, that the modern Diana will outstrip all competitors as easily as her ancient namesake did thos

Capt. Spotts, of the Newcomb, returned yesterday on the Rainbow, with the remains of Joseph Tunstall, Esq , his father-in-law, who died at Henderson. Mr. T. was 73 years of age. Capt. Spotts

We are indebted to the attentive clerk of the Emma Dean for a copy of the manifest. She leaves for Carrollton at 1 o'clock to-day. The numerous friends of Capt. Cline will be glad to welcome him back to his old post. He arrived last night.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS. - Wednesday, July 8 .-Docket .- Zebedee Shy, for striking Mrs. Sparks, as fined $100.

The following cases were dismissed: Com'th vs-, Pat Kelly, I. J. Duner, Chas. Best, James Watson, Donahue, (ou costs), Martha Hogg, Roger Long.

The following cases were continued: Com'th vs. Frances Fattick, Joseph Wolf, John Buck, Jacob Klingelfelter, P. Brown, Barney McNamom, Frank Cannon, Conrad Beale, Henry Benning, Chas. Winters (three indictments), Mary Webster, Frank Harmon, C Genet, and R. W. Powell.

R. C. Powell and Chas. Phillips, for carrying con ealed deadly weapons, were fined $50 each.

Geo. Heimer fined 1 cent, and Elizabeth Voltz $10. Frank Menge, for assaulting John Lappaile, was fined $5.

Mrs. T. Houpt, for assaulting a child, fined $5.

A MAN TARRED AND FEATHERED .- A man by was, it seems, discovered treating his child, a little sold. she was found caged up in a small shoe-box, tied up kept there forty-eight hours almost naked, and covered with bruises and callouses, and her father there in the act of beating her to still her cries! The alarm soon spread, a crowd rapidly gathered, when his house was demolished, and himself treated to a coat of tar and feathers on the spot. Not a man was found to defend the culprit.

MAKING CATHOLICS BY WHOLESALE.-Last Sunday, in Paris, Bourbon co., the Rev. George A. Carrell, Catholic Bishop of Covington. administered the rite of confirmation to one hundred and twenty grown persons. Upward of 500 Roman Catholics were in the town on the occasion, mostly from Bourbon, Clarke, Harrison, Montgomery, and Nicholas counties. The Rev. gentleman, who is a native of Philadelphia, addressed the large congregation collected inside and outside the church building, at 11 o'clock, A. M. He was assisted in his spiritual functions by the Rev. Herman G. Allen, the Catho lic pastor of Paris.

In speaking of the Louisville census yesterlay, we said that we knew of two prominent citizens upon whom Mr. Kave, the ceusus-taker, had neglected to call for the statistics of their families. Mr Kaye informs us however that he applied for the statistics of one of those families to a lady belonging to it, and that the statistics of the other were obtained from one of its next neighbors, the family itself being down the river. We have not doubted for a moment that Mr. Kaye has endeavored to discharge his duties faithfully, and yet we feel very sure that the population of Louisville is considerably greater than he has reported it.

NASHVILLE RAILROAD-Extension of Trains. We learn from Mr. Gamble, the efficient Superintendent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, that this important enterprise is gradually progress ing. Daily trains are now running to New Haven, a distance of 45 miles from this city.

On and after Monday next there will be two daily trains on the road. The first will leave at 6 A. M. aud arrive at New Haven at 8:15 A. M. The second train will leave at 3 P. M. and arrive at New Haver at 6:45 P. M.

Returning the first train will leave New Haven at 6 A. M. and arrive at Louisville at 9:45 A. M. The second train will leave New Haven at 4 P. M. and arrive at Louisville at 6:15 P. M.

We are glad to hear of the continued prosperity of the Nashville road. It is now doing a large business, which will increase as the road progresses. The receipts are at present much larger than those of the Frankfort road when it was first opened.

STOCK SALES IN BOURBON .- The Paris Flag says that, as usual at summer courts, there was not a large amount of stock for sale on Monday last .-Some 500 head of mules, 300 head of cattle, and 75 head of horses were offered; mules sold readily at better prices than usual. 20 head of 2 year olds went at $153; 50 at $112; 55 at $105; others at $100, $92, and as low as $88. Yearlings-10 head at $98; 10 at $70; and 15 at $64. The prices of cattle were not so well sustained. 28 head of three year olds sold at $32; 15 at $30; others as low as $23. Two year olds-50 head at $25; 30 at $23; 27 at $21; 18 at $19, &c. Horses sold at fair prices, ranging from $30 te $200. Mr. Hibler's sales were 325 head of mules and other property at $31,963, the name of Hogan, living at Hornellsville, N. Y., which was more than half of the whole amount RAPID TRAVEL .- Passengers leaving by the Jeffersonville train at 6:15 in the morning, will reach Cleveland at 10 o'clock the same night, and immediate connection with the Eastern cities by the most rapid and pleasant routes traveled. They reach New York on the following night at 10 P. M. This is by far the most expeditious ronte to the East, and should command the travel.

SAD BEREAVEMENT OF AN EDITOR .- We deeply sympathize with the editor of the Tuskegee (Ala.) Republican, in the affliction noticed below by the Prattville Statesman:

The Clerk of Leavenworth County Killed. Excitement of the Catizens—Prison Guarded by Two Hundred Men— Mob Law Threatened—Particulars of the Murder.—The officers of the steamer Henry Lewis give the particulars of the killing on Monday last of James M. Lyell, the clerk of the court of Leavenworth county. Two accouets of this unfortunate affair was given by eye witnesses. One was that while the election was progressing, Mr. Lyell handed a Dutchman a pro-slavery ticket, which the handed a Dutchman a pro-slavery ticket, which the Outchman refused to vote and tore up.

A fight then ensued, in which three or four men participated A free State man took the Dutch-man's part, and while engaged in the fight drew forth a bowie-knife, reached over and stabbed Lyell behind the shoulders, killing him almost instantly Another account is, that there was an old grudy, existing between Lyell and the man with whom he had the difficulty, growing out of treatment given by Lyell during the troubles of last fall; but both accounts agree as to the manner of killing. The free State man was immediately taken into custody and State man was immediately taken into custody and placed in prison. So great was the excitement of the crowd, that a guard of 200 men had to be placed to guard the prison Monday night, to keep summary vengeance from being executed. But quiet had been restored when the boat left, and it is to be hoped that the law will have its course.

FREE NEGROIS IN CANADA .- Mr. Prince, an | eminent lawyer and politician of Canada, recently delivered a speech in the Canadian Parliament, in which he denounced the influx of free negroes into that country as an evil, which demanded some prompt remedy. Thereupon the colored brethren held an iudignation meeting, in which Prince was denounced in the most savory terms, and white men were generally scored for their ignorance, vulgarity, and brutality. To these anathemas Counselor Prince replies in the following pungent strain, which has, to us, a very strong resemblance to the truth, as it appeared to all who have had like opportunities of knowing this race:

as it appeared to all who have had like opportunities of knowing this race:

Among the many estimable qualitities they possess, a systematic habit of lying is not the least prominent; and the "colored citizens" aforesaid seem to partake of that quality in an eminent degree, because in their famous resolutions they roundly assert that, during the Rebellion "I walked arm in arm with colored men"—and that "I have accumulated much earthly gains," as a lawyer, "among colored clients." All lies! lies! lies! from beginning to end. I admit that one company of blacks did belong to my contingent battalion, but they made the very worst of soldiers, and were, comparatively speaking, unsusceptible of drill or discipline, and were conspicuous for one act only—a stupid sentry shot the son of one of our oldest colonels, under a mistaken notion that he was thereby doing his duty. But, I certainly never did myself the honor of "walking arm-ir-1rm" with any of the colored genilemen of that distinguished corps.

Then, as to my election. Few, very tew blacks voted for me. I never canvassed them, and hence, I suppose, they supported, as a body, my opponents. They took compassion upon 'a monument of injured innocence,' and they sustained the monument for awhile upon the pedestal their influence erected. But the monument fell, and the fall proved that such influence was merely ephemeral, and it sank into insignificant nothingness, as it should, and I hope ever will do, or God help this noble land. Poor blackies! be not so bold, or so conceited, or so insolent hereafter, I do beseech you.

Then how rich I have become among my 'colored' clients! I assert, without the fear of contradiction, that I have been the friend of our Western 'darkies' fact is, the poor creatures never had the ability to pay a lawyer's fee.

Then how rich I have become among my 'colored' clients! I assert, without the fear of contradiction, that I have been the friend of our Western 'darkies' for more than twenty years; and amid difficulties and troubles innumerable (for they are a litigious race), I have been their adviser, and I never made twenty pounks out of them in that long period. The fact is, the poor creatures never had the ability to year a laware's fee.

It has been my misfortune and the misfortune of my family to live among those biacks (and they have lived upon us), for twenty-four years. I have employed hundreds of them, and with the exception of one named Richard Hunter, not one has ever done for us a week's honest labor. I have taken them into my service, have fed and clothed them year after year, on their arrival from the States, and in return have generally found them rogues and thieves. return have generally found them rogues and thieves, and a graceless, worthless, thriftless, lying set of vagabonds. That is my very plain and very simple description of the darkies as a body, and it would be indorsed by all the Western white men, with very few exceptions.

THE NEW GRENADIAN DIFFICULTIES. - "Ion, the generally correct correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, writes:

If rumors are to be relied upon, this Government is on the eve of hostilities with New Grenada, Venezuela, and Costa Rica. Negotiations with New Grenada have, so far, resulted in an aggravation of the difficulty, by exciting the passions and prejudices of the Grenadians. The new President, it is said, is disposed to do us justice, but is unable to control or resist the popular feeling of a conceited and vain-glorious race. and vain-glorious race.

There are various and contradictory rumors as to the condition of this question; but it is asserted that, unless our minister, Mr. Bowlin, upon his arrival, shall afford some prospect of an adjustment of the matters pending, this government will adopt some more hostile measures. New Grenada cannot according to the opinion of Mr. Morse, our late special ambassador at Bogota, pay the provisionary demand which was made on our part. It could not raise the sum of $400,000. It might give its bonds secured by a pledge of sovereignty over an island or two in the Bay of Panama, the possession of which would be very desirable to us. This is now said to be the mode in which the covernment of New Grenada adof New Grenada ad-

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Gentlemen: Two writers in your paper of yesterday, in reference to the city census reported by me, have committed errors and made misrepresentations which I feel it my dut to correct. One of them asserts that this important matter (the census) was referred to the Committee of Revision of one board, who were engaged in its examination. Here the writer erra. The matter was referred to a special committee and no examination was being had. The writer says further, "we believe, however, that Mr. Kaye asked for a return of his books to make Important corrections." The person who gave this information to the writer is guilty of wilful misrepresentation. I addressed a communication to the General Council informing them that I had completed the consus—submitted a specimen of the work (1 of the wards), and asked for a committee to examine it, and would meet the committee at their appointed time and place, and give such explanations as they required. The Board of Aldermen appointed a committee. I requested Alderman Duvali to move that I be permitted to withdraw the books and my communication for the purpose of presenting it to the Board of Common Council. Permission was granted. The Council appointed a committee. I requested Alderman Duvali to move that I be permitted to remove the books, and that I would have all the books observe the committee when they met.

Mr. Pope told me to take them and did not make the motion for me to withdraw them, and the assertion of the writer stating that I withdrew them for the purpose of making important corrections is untrine. The books are correct and I have no alterations to make, and the General Council will uo doubt satisfy themselves that we have done our duty before they make any report on the subject; and I will here state that myself and brother are willing to accompany any respectable committee to any and all parts of the city for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not we have performed To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Purchase v in want of a good Watch at a moderate cost would do well to call and JOHN KITTS & Co., HAY MAKING—Cut your Hay at the right Time.—Philosophy and practice seldom agree. When is the right time? is the question for solution. Our neighbor, one of them, cut his hay a week in advance of his brother farmers—cut it very soon after the seed had commenced to form, frequently before the bloom had disappeared—cured it in the sun partially—not altogether. No one had better hay. His crop was secured before any of it had become wood. Dry sticks, and the fragrant, well cured hay in his barns were not analagous. Another neighbor waited until others were done, that he might obtain help at cheaper rates. Two weeks after others had finished, "his last day of haying" came. There was another gain, he said, by this course. The grass was riper and made faster—more was accomplished in a day; hence it did not cost near the amount to do his haying that it did other people.

more was accomplished in a day; hence it did not cost near the amount to do his haying that it did other people.

Of course not, but his complaint was, when winter came—"My hay does not spend well. My cattle eat heartily, but do not thrive as they should. Neighbor A. does not feed his cattle as well as I do mine, yet they are in far better flesh."

The hay, sir, the hay makes the difference. Cut it at the right time—just before the seed is matured—before the woody matter predominates in the stalk. Some suppose the woody matter is useless as an article of nourishment, but it is not indigestible, though insoluble in water. The age of the grass alone does not govern the amount of nntritive matter when made into hay, but soil, climate, and season modify its value greatly. We would prefer to cut it in bloom, or a portion of the crop, rather than let it remain to shell its seed. There are chemical considerations which enter into these directions. There is no doubt but there is more of the element of nutrition in grass at the time of flovering, but it is a question if such nutrition remains in greater quantity after the process of curing, when such process is commenced before, or soon after, the seed commences to form. This is an open question. The quicker your hay is made and secured after it has reached the proper state, the better. The cutting of the first hay crop onght not to extend beyond three weeks.

We think the value of the grass crop after it is the first hay crop ongother the grass crop after it is made into hay depends as much on the manner of curing as on the time of cutting. The whole crop may be spoiled in curing, no matter when cut. The following practical directions are given from expensions.

Cut in the morning. If the grass is heavy, or green and damp, sir out. Let it witt. Rake np and put in small cocks, if good weather, larger if "catching weather." Let it remain in the cock until it has sweat thoroughly. Tip over, shake apart. Give it one or two hours' good sun, and stack, or stow it in your mow.

Do not mow more than you can secure in cocks the same day. Night dews injure hay if partially cured. Throw salt on your hay, especially if it clover, as you put it in the mow—tour quarts to each ton. If you have no mowing machine, get one. If you cannot, use only a good sharp scythe, and never mow or allow your men to mow with a dult scythe.

These rainy June days, fit up the horse and other rakes. Make a lot of extra teeth to supply broken ones. Fit up the hay rack. Have a good one. Use good forks. Do not insult your help by requiring them to pitch hay with poor and rough-made forks. Smooth fork handle, springy and tough, and the hav is easily and quickly handled. Have plenty of cool and good drink in the hay field. The bast is pure toe water. Some may demnr; but we know nothing better or more healthy, and nothing that is preferred to it after having been used once —Pratrie Farmer.

FACTS AND NOTES ABOUT BEES.—1. Never kill a bee on any account whatever.

2. There are rather more than 300 in one ounce, and about 5,000 in one pound avordapois.

3. A swarm, to be considered a good one, ought to weigh not less than from four to five ponnds; if much less than four pounds, it ought either to be returned whence it came, after taking away its queen, or be joined to another weaker hive or swarm.

4. The first swarm is headed by the old queen, the others by young queens. Eight or nine days after the first swarm comes off, one or more young queens will be heard, if you tap the hive with your hand gently once or twice in the evening and listen, crying "peep, peep, peep;" that hive is then ready to swarm a second time.

5. Use hives made of wood, and so constructed.

a second time.

5. Use hives made of wood, and so constructed that you can give your bees room as they require it; the side-box system is the best. As a general rule, swarming ought to be prevented as unprofitable, unless an increased number of hives in wished tor, as one strong stock is much better than three weak ones.

6. One side-box has been known to contain upwards of fifty pounds of pure honey, and to be taken without killing a bee; and fifty pounds of honey at 2s. a pound is £5 sterling, which is money!

7. Fumigation is effected by means of the smoke of the Fungus pulverulentes, or common "Puzzball" or "Frog-cheese," which grows plentifully on old pasture, and should be dried in the oven till it is like tinder—the smoke stupelies but it does not kill the bees. When they are in that state pick out the queen, drench them with water in which a little queen, drench them with water in which a little honey has been mixed, and place the hive containing nothing but these half-drowned bees, upside-down under the hive you wish them to join; the dry bees will go down and lick the others dry, and the whole will then ascend into the upper hive, and the junction will be complete. Let the upper hive rest on

8. Weigh all your hives or boxes when empty, and mark upon them the weight. For the winter support of your bees, each hive with the bees should support of your bees, each hive with the bees should weigh nearly twenty-eight pounds; the richer and stronger the hees are in winter, the better will they be able to work in spring for you. It in autumn they do not weigh nearly twenty-eight pounds, they must be fed up to the proper weight.

IRISH RIOT IN BROWKEYN .- About half past 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a most serious and fatal affray occurred in a place known as the Mount Prospect Hotel, on Flatbush Avenue. Patrick McCarty, the proprietor of the how, was fatally stabbed. Jos. McCarty is badly injured, but will probably recover, and John Burns is also seriously injured. The wounds were inflicted by a knife in the hands of Bernard Butler, who made his escape after inflicting the injuries, but was subsequently arrested and is now in jail.

The circumstances of the affray are as follows:
From the statement of Bernard McCarty, who was present, it appears that the brothers McCarty and Mahady had invited a party to the house for the purpose of having a dance that afternoon, and while so engaged Butler, Burns, Timothy Busler, William Shanly, and two or three others, came up and endeavored to effect an entrance into the shed where they were dancing. Upon this a general fight took place, when Bernard Butler stabbed Patrick and Joseph McCarty and Mahady, and some one of the party inside stabbed Buras and beat Timethy Butler. Bernard made his escape immediately upon learning the ex-N. Y. Expres

ACCIDENT ON THE NEW ALBANY RAILEOAD .- The train for this city on the New Albany railroad met with quite a serious accident on Tuesday, at the Wea bridge, about three mlles distant from Lafayette. As the train was approaching the bridge, tender and baggage-car from some cause flew off the track, and on reaching the middle of the bridge she car turned over and was precipitated into the bed of the river, a distance of nearly thirty feet, breaking it entirely to pieces. The locomotive succeeded in getting across and maintaining itself on the track, dragging the tender after it, and tearing up the track at a terrible rate. There was but one passenger-car, which was detached at the time the baggage-car went over, and kept its place on the track. The following persons were severely injured: Jno.

T. Baccus, Alexander Flack, Albert Knapper, Mrs. Samantha Tucker, and Conductor Drought.

Mr. Spence, Minister of the United States at Constantinople, arrived in Buchare a short time He of course immediately paid a visit to the nacan, but ten days passed away and without the latter returning it. The Anierican was offended, especially as he knew the caimacan was accussomed to pay frequent visits to the East Austrian Colonel, and sent one of his legation to demand explanations; but that gentleman presented himself several times at the palace, without being received. Two evenings back, at Sir H. Bulwer's weekly reception, the caimacan, finding himself near Mr. Spence, extended him the hand, but Mr. Spence declined to receive it. The caimacan then said that he had excuses to make to Mr. Spence, and the latter replied, "You have indeed, sir!" and turned his back on him. The day after, the caimacan paid a wisit to the American Minister.

Novel School Instruction .- A new idea has been developed in the school line. S. N. Botsford, of Whitneyville, Ct., has established a school for mechanical instruction, as well as educational, in one of the rural districts of Connecticut. The articles to be manufactured are toys. Each pupil is required to work a few hours each day in the factory with his hands; after which, he goes into the school and works some hours with his head. The project of uniting pleasing physical occupation with the mental is new, and appears, on first thought, desirable; besides, some youngsters, who have a taste that way, may initiate themselves into quite good trades.

Several works have been published in England lately upon the Chinese. Sir John Davis has issued a "General Description of that Empire and its Inlabitants." Robert Fortune has published "A Residence among the Chinese''-a narrative of scenes and adventures during a third visit to that country. M. Huc's recent "Travels in China" had graphic pictures of the domestic life and political stitutions of that people. Fortune gives the following picture of the market:

For half a mile this street was literally crowded with articles of food. Fish, pork, fowls, duck, regetables of many kinds, and the fruits of the season, lined its sides. Mushrooms were abundant and excellent. Frogs seemed much in demand. They are brought in tubs and baskets, and the vender employs hinself in skinning them as he sits making sales. He takes up the frog in his left hand, and with a knife, held in his right, chops off the forepart of its head. The skin is then drawn over the body. and down to the feet, which are chopped off and thrown away. The poor frog, still alive, but head-bas, skinned, and without feet, is then thrown into another tuh, and the operation is repeated on the test in the same way. Every now and then the artist lays flown his knife and takes up his scales to weigh these animals for his customers, and make weigh these animals for his customers, and make his sales. Everything—gold or silver, geese or

Saw tea-leaves—just plucked from the bushes—are also exposed in this market. They sold at from three to five farthings a pound; and, as it takes about four pounds of raw leaves to make one pound at tea, it tollows that the price paid was at the rate from three panes to five tence a pound; but to af tea, it tollows that the price paid was at the rate of from three pence to five pence a pound; but to this must be added the expense of manipulation. In this manner the inhabitants of large towns in this manner the inhabitants of their own can buy the raw leaves in the market, and manufacture the wakes and swectments to tempt the young; while, now and then, passed a thrifty housewife, carrying a web of cotton cloth, woven at home, and to be sold at the fair. More gaily dressed than any of these were small parties of coolies, limping along on their small feet, each one having a long staff in her hand to stedy her, and to help her along the mountain read. Behind each of these parties comes an attendant coolie, carrying a basket of provisions, and any other little article required during their journey.

A dramatic performance varied the proceedings of the day:

In the afternoon the play began, and attracted its thousands of happy spectators. The subscribers, or those who gave the play, lad a raised platform, about twenty yards from the front of the stage, for themselves and their friends. The public occupied the ground on the front and sides of the stage, and to them the whoie was as free as mountain air. And it is the same all over China; the actors are paid by the rich, and the poor are not excluded from particular in the enjoyments of the stage. copating in the enjoyments of the stage.

Chinese theatricals are the most primitive euterpeinments in the Celestial Empire. There are no dresses, nor scenes. A table and a few chairs on the platform constitute the properties, and the gist of the tory is generally a piece of comical love-making, diversified by sham sword fights, amid a tremenduor sprear of gongs and timbrels.

GAMING AND BANKRUPTCY .- The British Parli. ment, in a recent act, has provided that the loss of more than £20 in one day by gaming, or than £200 in the year preceding insolvency, shall har a bankrupt's title to obtain his certificate. The offense brings the culprit within the scope of the penal clauses, and is punished at the discretion of the commissioner in the same manner as the perpetration of fraud, reckless trading, or any other mercantile misdemeanor. One of the commissioners of bankruptcy has extended the rule to apply to "time bargains' in stock.

THE GOLD QUESTION - Under this head the Paris Revue Contemporaine publishes an interesting paper, in which the author, M. Levasseur, proceeding from statistical data already brought under the notice of the public by various previous writers, arrives at the following preliminary results:

1. The general rise in the price of provisions and 1. The general rise in the price of provisions and merchandise proceeds from four causes, two of which, viz: war and bad harvests, are transitory, while the other two, the development of manufactures and an increased supply of gold, are permanent in their effects. 2. The rise chiefly affects provisions and such articles as are produced in limited quantities. 3. It is much less perceptible in manufactured articles. 4. It is greater in Eugland than in France. 5. It cannot transgress a certain limit, at which it is stopped by competition, until prices descend to the same level among all civilized nations. 6. Before this limit is attained the rise is for some time artificially exaggerated by the retail dealer. 7. The rise in France and England has been tavorable both to the merchant and the agriculturist. tayorable both to the merchant and the agriculturist. 8. Salaries do not increase in proportion to the price of provision, consequently the rise has been detrinental to those who live upon fixed salaries; and, those therefore who live upon fixed incomes daily

As a set-off to these evils the author remarks upon the benefits arising from an increased influx of go and shows that, although in theory an article in proportion to the increase of the circulating ine-dium, such is not practically the case, because this proportional rise neets with its check in the stimu-lus given to production by the increase. commerce might be expected to rise in price exactly lus given to production by the increasing demand consequent upon a greater abundance of means.

The difference between the influx of precious metal and the amount of ric which it has produced, therefore, constitutes a real increase in public wealth. Thus in England, deducting the effects of the scarrity which are transitory the lurgest of the scarcity, which are transitory, the largest rise does not exceed twenty-five per cent. In France, where the effects of bad harvests have been most severely felt and may be stated at seventy-five cent, the rise at ributable to the influx of gold cent., the rise at ributable to the influx of gold is also limited to twenty-five per cent.; now, the influx of gold has been upwards of fifty per cent.; therefore, an addition has been made to the permanent wealth of the country of at least one-half of the new amount of gold introduced.

Whether and at what period the civilized world will be saturated with the precious metal M. Levasseur does not undertake to decide, but he thinks that that does not undertake to decade, but no thinks that that period is still far distant, and that the activity of our manufactures, the immense increase of our commercial intercourse, and the clylilization which through the instrumentality of gold, has so rapidly sprung up in California and Australia, will enable us for many years to come to absorb the profluce of the gold fields without being made sensible of any

We will not follow M. Levasseur through the numerous statistical details into which he subsequent-ly enters in order to explain the great phenomenon of our day, viz: the disappearance of silver in proof our day, viz. the disappearance of silver in pro-portion as gold flows in, a circumstance more severe-ly felt in France than elsewhere; but we cannot omit to state that, in his opinion, it is the arbitrary proportion of value legally adopted in the latter country (fifteen and a half of silver to one of gold), a proportion permanently upheld between two metals the relative value of which is subject to constant change, that "France owes the melancholy privilege of always being a rich mine of speculation either for her gold or her silver." The author now inquires which of the two metals ought to be chosen for a standard. for a standard.

The French law, indeed, establishes five grammes of silver at 9 loths as the unit value, but it also sanctions gold as a legal tender; and whichever of sanctions gold as a legal tender; and whichever of the two metals be preferred, this preference is sure to give an unfair advantage to the holder either of gold or silver, as the case may be. One of the great arguments against gold is its present depreciation; but who can tell whether silver may not, at no distant period, undergo a similar depreciation? The production of gold appears inexhaustible at present; but on the other hand, has not M. de Humbolt predicted, from personal observation, and positive scientific data, that a day would come when the silver mines of America would come when the silver mines of America would be worked along a line of 12,000 kilometers? Again, the production of silver depends on that of mercury; what if new mines of that metal, hitherto unsuspected, were shortly discovered? Since the beverage for themselves.

He thus describes a procession to a Fair:

There were long trains of coolies, loaded with fraits and vegetables; there were hawkers, with their cakes and sweetments to tempt the young; while, now and then, passed a thrifty housewife, carrying silver. He could be a substance of the stability requisite the laws of this class being infinited, not by distinct ordinance, but by a recommendation of the Prophet, to four.

The leasehold tenure is called "Seegha," or "Leegha e neved Saleh," the unerty years contract. But that silver will always retain he stability requisite the laws. He never how the silver will always retain he stability requisite the laws. He never how the silver will always retain he stability requisite the laws. He never he was a shorter duration. It is said to be a standard of value. But even 10 vis France that silver will always retain he stability requisite the laws. still in a comittion to dictate the law? Has not the ommercial interest already declared Since 1848 the mints of France have coined 2,243 million of tranes of gold, and the quantity is daily increasing. Hence the question is no longer a matter of choice, and commerce alone will complete the revolution itself, unless the State at length resolve to legalize a state of things which is already beyond its control.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT AT BOSTON. -Four Persons Killed and Two Others Injured. -At the exhibition of lireworks on the common on the evening of the 4th, two iron mortars were used in discharging rocket and two men were specially employed in them. In one of the mortars a shell was intiring them. serted, and the fuse was lighted by a young man named Patrick Cook, when the mortar burst almost instautly, scattering its pi ces in every direction. One of them struck young Cook on the left shoulder and face, breaking every bone with which it came in contact, although to outward appearance there was no injury except a cut on the face. Cook lived about five minutes, but spoke to word. He was nincleen years of age, and had been in the employ of the pyrotechnists, James G. Hovev & Co for nine or ten years. He leaves a widowed mother and two sisters and a brother who were dependent

Never had she heard so forcible a lecture on the evils of scolding. The words of Lizzie sank deep in her heart, and she turned away from the innocent face of her little one to hide the tears that gathered in her eyes. Children are quick observers; and Lizzie, seeing the effect of her words, hastened to inquire: "Why do you cry, mother? Was it naughty for me to ask so many questions?"

"No, love, it was all right. I was only thinking how had I had been to scold so much, when my girl could hear and be troubled by it."

"O, no, mamma, you are not bad; you are a good mamma; only I wish there were not so many bad things to make you fret and talk like you did just now. It makes me feel away from you so far, as if I could not come near you, as I can when you smile and are kind; and O, I sometimes fear I shall be put off so far I never cau get back again."

This was an effectual lesson, and the mother felt

A CANADIAN JURY FIGHTING FOR A VERDICT.—
A rather hard story is told by the Aylmer Times, of the 24th, respecting the depravity of a jury, which, if true, is certainly deplorable. A man named Landers was charged with murder at the last sitting of the Court of Queen's Bench for the District of Ottawa, held at Aylmer last week, and was put upon his trial for the crinic. The case is reported thus:
"Deceased came to Landers's groggery under the influence of liquor and demanded some drink; Lauders refused, and he insisted; the prisoner took up an iron poker to strike him with lut was presented.

an iron poker to strike him with, but was prevented; he then took up a stick, which was taken from him; he then ran for an ax; this also he was persuaded or compelled to abandon; lastly, he took up a club of cordwood, four feet in length and three inches thick, and struck deceased a blow which felled him to the carth. earth, and made effort to follow it up by others till he was prevented. Deceased was carried from his door insensible and died immediately after."

The jury, after retiring, it seems, could not agree ome were for convicting the prisoner, others manslaughter, others common assault, and it is though some were for clearing him altogether. Finding that there was no prospect of their agreeing, those who were for convicting the prisoner for the capital of fense offered to compound the matter by bringing in a verdict of manslaughter; but this would not be agreed to, eight of them holding out for a verdict of common assault.

Of course such a proposition could not be agreed to, and they all agreed to resort to a "toss up," which resulted in favor of a verdict of manslangh ter. Yet still eight of the twelve would not submit to the result of their own proposal. Then was proto the result of their own proposal. Then was pro-posed an extraordinary measure for the decision of a verdict, viz: that they should divide and fight across a table, six against six, the winning party to dictate a verdict. For some reason best known to them-selves, this proposal was not adopted, and, as they could not agree upon a verdict, they were discould not agree upon a verdict, they were dis-charged, and the prisoner remanded until the next sitting of the court. The Times says that the jury, during the course of their deliberations, occasionally indulged them elves in singing and dancing reels.

MARGIAGE IN PERSIA The last number of the London Quarterly Review contains an interesting article on Persia. Among the topics touched on is that of marriage. Marriages in Persia are of two kinds, according to the Sheeite law—one permanent and binding, unless dissolved by formal divorce, the other contracted for a period not exceeding ninety years. A husband in Persia can thus enjoy a free-hold or leasehold tenure of his wife. The permanent marriage is called "Akd," and the wife "A Kdee." It is the most honorable form of marriage contract recognized by the Mohammedan law, the number of wives of this class being limited, not by not difficult to find Mullahs, or men of the law not difficult to find Mullahs, or men of the law, in the principal cities, who are ready, for a considera-tion, to make out the "Seegha" for a year, a month, a week, or even a day. The excesses to which a custom of this kind, tolerated if not sanctioned by the law, must lead, can readily be imagined.

The facility of divorce, allorded not only in Persia but in all Mohammedan countries, destroys the sanctity of the marriage relation, and weakens the domestic ties. Among the upper and most educated classes, resort is seldom had to the privileges of divorce, and the man who divorces his wife and the who marries a divorced woman are regarded with avor. But among the poorer classes and the disfavor. But among the poorer classes and the Arabs, divorces are of frequent occurrence. The repetition three times of a certain form of word sulfices to dissolve a marriage, and the most tritling quarrel often leads to a divorce. Christianity alone clevates woman to her proper sphere and dignity; and in its elevating and purifying influences we have the evidence of its divine origin.

COURTING BY ADVERTISEMENT. - One cannot avoid teing amused, at times, by the absurdities of matrimonial advertisements as they appear in London and New York. The incongruous mixture of love and lucre, business and sentiment, vanity and venality, innocence and impudence, which form the venanty, innocence and inputence, which form inestable of this sort of diplomacy, is quite as diverting as the most comical farce invented by the playwrights. We have before us at this moment several specimens of this kind of literature which are well worthy of republication. Here is an advertisement from "A young gentleman of New York," who wishes to form a matrimonial alliance with a young laboratory of any Shamust least the state of the same state. lady not over sixteen years of age. She must be pretty, well developed, of undonbted respectability. &c. Modest young gentleman that, but a cunning &c. Modest young gentleman that, but a cunning dog notwithstanding. "Not over sixteen" by any means, for if she is old enough to have arrived at years of discretion she may be too old a bird to be caught with chaff. She must be pretty, of course; girls of sixteen have no right to be ugly. The particular points of de elopment are not set down by the advertiser. He probably don't allude to the waist or the ankle, and certainly not to the braiu; since no young lady, even of sixteen, who has a reasonably well developed brain, could possibly be entrapped by a matimoulal advertisement. Of his own charms, person-1, moral, or pecuniary, the own charms, personal, moral, or pecuniary, the young man is too modest to give any account. It simply speaks of him-elf as a "gentl-man doing bu-siness in New York." Con-idering how many sort of "business" are done in that enterprising village, of "business" are done in that enterprising village, we would wish, for the sake of getting some idea of his character, that he had been a little more specific. The excuse which the young man gives for choosing this mode of gaining a partner is that. "he does not find a lady possessing the above requisites in his present circle of female acquaintances." Probably not. Ladies possessing all the charms of Aspasia, with the youth of Hobe, and the "respectability" of Mrs. Casar are doubtless sufficiently scaree in the circles frequented by gantlemen who advertise for wives.—Boston Poet.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS .- Thursday, July 9 .-Sprinkle, of Memphis, Ind., was held to bail in $500 to answer an indictment for attempting to run off a slave. Committed in default of bail.

Julia Williams Taylor, on an indictment for petit larceny, was tried and sentenced to the workhouse for one month.

The case of Col. Wm. Preston for carrying a concealed v eapon was then called, and much time expended in obtaining a jury.

. The examination of witnesses was then proceeded with. The trial will doubtless consume much time. and attracts great attention. Messrs. Speed, Culdwell, Bland Ballard, and Lancaster are the attorneys for the defence. Ex-Senator Dixon is also in DASTARDLY ASSAULT UPON A LADY .- Last night, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, Mrs. Robert Ernst, residing at the upper end of Main street, had occasion to step out of the back door of her residence. In the act of doing so, a man sprang at her in the dark, exclaiming, "I've got you now." at the same time flourished his knife and cut Mrs. R.'s dress in several places, also inflicting a severe wound upon her side. The cries of the lady alarmed Mr. Ernst, who had only arrived at home a short time previously. The assassin immediately fled. It is supposed that the villain attempted to assassinate Mr. E., and mistook the object of his shameful hate.

The Northerner .- This excellent packet reached here in time for the mailboat with a large number of passengers. The N. is one of the most popular boats in the trade, and she deserves to be. Her accomodations are superb. Her clerks, Messrs. Archer and Mullikin, have our thanks for the usual favors. The Northerner will leave for Memphis to-morrow evening.

The New York Times gives the following as the origin of the name of the order of "Dead Rabbits:"

bits: There appears to be some difference of opinion among "outsiders" as to the origin and name of the Club. One authority says that, for over six years past, there has been an organization in the Sixth Ward known as the "Roach Gaard," in honor of one Roach, who keeps a liquor place in Mulberry street, near Bayard street. About five years ago there was a difference in the Guard which led to a secession; and one night while they were holding a meeting, a dead rabbit was thrown into the room, and this circumstance gave the seceders the title of "Dead Rabbits" Becoming proud of the name, a club was organized called "The Dead Rabbit Club." "Dead Rabbits" Becoming proud of the name, a club was organized called "The Dead Rabbit Club," which became popular in that quarter. It is regularly organized, has a president, secretary, and other officers, and the printed notices which are sent to unembers are embellished at one corner with the cut of a dead rabbit hanging by the heels. The memof a dead rabbit hanging by the heels. The members, or those who are known as "Dead Rabbits," range from eighteen to twenty-five years of age, and they number from one to two hundred members. Their members were increased, however, on Saturday, through sympathy of local mide and by the circulation of an idle and vicious report in the "Dead Rabbit" neighborhood that the Know-Nothings and Black Republicans were coming down to destroy the Catholic church in Mott street.

STEAMBOAT DISASTER -- Several Lives Lost .- The Oshkosh Democrat gives the following particulars of the explosion of the river steamer Berlin City, while racing with the steamer Pearl, on the 3d iust .:

Yesterday afternoon the steamers Pearl and Berlin City left this place at the same time, the former for New London, the latter for Berlin. In going up the river together they of course raced, and when about a mile this side of Butts de Morts, the Pearl being about ten rods ahead, the boilers of the City exploded with terrific force, tearing her all to pieces. Four persons were killed outright—Capt. Brown of Berlin, the engineer, and two other men. In about three minutes atter the explosion she sunk in about eight feet of water. The Pearl went immediately to the rescue of the passengers, and, picking up all she could find, immediately returned to this place with them. Nearly all on board the City were injured more or less. The lives of several are despaired of. On the arrival of the Pearl a tug was immediately dispatched to the scene of the disaster. The Pearl started up for Berlin about dusk, hiving some of the wounded on board. The books of the Berlin being lost, it was impossible to tell, at the time of belng about ten rods ahead, the boilers of the City being lost, it was impossible to tell, at the time of going to press, how many passengers were on board, or how many are missing. It is feared that several are lost who are not yet known.

THE LAST ILLNESS OF GOV. MARCY. -- GOVERNOR THE LAST ILLNESS OF GOV. MARCY.—Governor Marcy was spending a few weeks at Ballston, previous to his departure with his family for Europe. On Friday he visited Albany, calling on Mr. Corning and other friends, and stopping at Troy to see his daughter. Mrs. Marcy was visiting some friends in the West, previous to her departure; and other members of his family were absent with the like motive; and he was comparatively alone at the time of his decease. of his decease.

He was, however, in apparently excellent health and buoyant spirits. It is only since his death that we learn of his having been conscious of late of palpitation of the heart, but the symptoms had not alarmed him nor occasioned uneasiness to his friends.

It could not have been more than twenty minutes from the time he was in the hotel office until he was so found by the physician He died probably of disease of the heart; not a nuscle was distorted nor any article of apparel or furniture in the room disturbed. He had pulled off his boots and put on his slippers.
